China Trend Building Press Ltd is a Hong Kong-based company specialising in trade publications, particularly in the areas of building design and construction, real estate, interior decoration and related fields. The longest-running China Trend title is the English-language Building Journal, which has been in continuous publication every month since March 1973. It is today the foremost publication of its kind in southern China in terms of readership. Other China Trend publications such as Construction & Contract News are published in English, Chinese or bilingually in both languages. Their frequency ranges from monthly, bi-monthly to yearly.

The company is a forerunner in online publishing. The web site www.building.hk was first introduced in 1996 and since then has become one of the most popular portals for professional members of the building and construction industry worldwide. The company is currently providing content management services to more than 40 web sites and portals in the region.

The China Trend Group today employs about 40 staff members and has offices in Hong Kong, Guangzhou and Shenzhen. Many key positions are held by staff who have been with the company for more than a decade. The company has tremendous capabilities in the production and printing of catalogues and brochures for clients, in addition to publishing trade periodicals.
